

$300,000 THEFT LAID TO EMPLOYE

Assistant Secretary of Philadelphia Trust Company Faces Embezzlement Charge.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 31.—Charles F. Toomey, an assistant secretary of the Philadelphia Trust Company, was arrested yesterday on charges of embezzling over $300,000 from an estate handled by the bank.

"Well, I expected to be arrested, and am glad it is all over," said Toomey, as he was approached by Joseph Le Strange, a city detective.

Toomey returned to his home after two weeks' vacation with his wife at Lake George and Lake Champlain, where, it is said, they visited the most expensive hotels. When arraigned before Magistrate Macleary at Central station he was held in $25,000 bail for court.

According to the bank officials and city detectives, Toomey confessed taking the money and gambling most of it away. They said he started with small amounts meaning to pay back each "loan," but gradually got in deeper and deeper until he realized there was no hope of "squaring matters."

After his arrest this morning, as he was about to enter a barber shop, he went with the bank officials to the trust company's offices and went over the books. Harold E. Bettler, of counsel for the bank, stated:

"They say he used the money for betting on horse races at Saratoga, Havre de Grace and this city. His wife knew nothing of his alleged peculations."

Several hours after his arrest his brother was notified. He was present

Oil to Be Lower? "Sure," Says John D. Then He Gives Straight Dope

SARANAC LAKE, N. Y., Aug. 31.—John D. Rockefeller, who is visiting his brother, William, at the latter's camp near Paul Smith's, met a motorboat owner on St. Regis lake, and the motor boat man ventured to ask the oil king if gasoline ever was going to be any lower.

"Oh, yes," said Rockefeller, "it is bound to be lower so long as the public continues to consume more than the wells of the country are producing."

He grinned and embarked with his brother in Leo Kelly's motorboat, leaving the questioner scratching his head. Rockefeller and his party went for a two-hour tour of the upper and lower St. Regis lakes with Kelly, and when the oil king disembarked he shook hands with the guide and remarked:

"This is the most fun I've had for 10 or 20 years."

He gave Kelly a $10 bill, $8 for boat hire and $2 as a tip.

at the hearing and afterward left to notify Mrs. Toomey.

Toomey is forty-nine years old and has been with the trust company for twenty-six years, having worked up from the position of office boy.

CITIES' PLEA MAY AVERT COAL FAMINE ON LAKES

Coal consumers in Cleveland and Akron, Ohio, probably will be saved from a fuel famine, next winter, as a result of the fight now being waged before the Interstate Commerce Commission, by civic bodies of those cities, to have the Commission's service order giving lake shipments of coal priority.

The hearings were recessed today to allow representatives of the Chamber of Commerce of the two cities to confer with representatives of the railroads and coal operators, to agree upon a workable plan, by which coal may be diverted.

Officials of the Commission today frankly told members of these delegations that a sweeping amendment of the order in question is not possible, as the Northwest and Canada are not getting their normal supply of coal, and even may receive a much reduced tonnage than usual before navigation on the lakes closes this fall.

OIL MEN WILL PAY NEW MEXICAN TAX

Petroleum Association Agrees to Pay Export Duty Demanded by New Regime.

The Association of Producers of Petroleum in Mexico, representing about 95 per cent of the oil-producing property there, have agreed to pay the export taxes demanded by the provisional Mexican government for the bimonthly period, including May and June, it was announced today.

The sums to be paid represent the difference between the taxes computed on the basis of the average price for Mexican oil in force in January and February, and the so-called Cabrera scale promulgated after that period. The taxes as computed on the old scale had been paid by the companies, which protested against the increase declaring that the actual price they received for Mexican oil was less than the basis of the new assessment.

The agency of the provisional government here some days ago issued a statement that immediate measures would be taken to collect the amount due under the new decree. The petroleum companies assert that they had been assured by Gen. Salvador Alvarado, acting as fiscal agent of the provisional government in New York, that the scale for January and

Strike Oil in Wyoming, Ten Wells Are Spouting 150 Barrels Per Day

In the world-wide struggle for oil, discovery of a new field in eastern Wyoming, 100 miles east of Salt Creek and four miles from the South Dakota line, is announced by the United States Geological Survey. It is known as the Mule Creek field. The Geological Survey says:

"The presence of petroleum in this region had long been suspected and considerable drilling had been done. Geologists have drilled a test well that proves to be the 'discovery well' of the field.

"The production of this first well was small compared with wells in the nearby Lance Creek field, but its success stimulated extensive drilling, and ten wells on the south-eastern anticline were soon each producing daily 125 to 150 barrels of oil of high grade."

February would remain in effect until opportunity was given for the companies to produce proof that the price they received for oil in New York was lower than that on which the new duties were based.

In spite of this assurance, the companies say, the new rate was demanded by the government. The companies, it was announced, decided to pay the difference rather than engage in controversy which might involve more important negotiations.

WOMAN PRISONER DEMANDS SERVICE

Insists Officials Supply Her With Toilet Articles and Bed Sheets.

BABYLON, L. I., Aug. 31.—"Nothing but the best" will do for Mrs. Lydia Oakley, twenty-one years old. She put the town authorities to much trouble before she would agree to spend the night in the town hall, following her arrest on a bigamy charge.

She is the first woman to occupy the building and the cell was devoid of the "comforts" she demanded. Finally Justice Cooper sent out a constable, who purchased a comb, brush, towel, soap and other articles of toilet. When she saw the bare mattress in the cell the woman indignantly exclaimed:

"You don't expect me to sleep on a bed without a sheet?"

The justice said he thought she could for one night, but she thought not, and a sheet and blanket were purchased for her. She then was persuaded to occupy the cell, as she had been unable to raise the $500 bail fixed by Justice Cooper.

She was arrested on a warrant sworn out by Harry Beach, who says he married the woman at Hempstead in September, 1919, and that three weeks later she left him. Recently he learned, so he says, that she was married in November, 1919, at Patchogue to La Verne Long.
